LE JARDIN DE MARCELLIN Marcellin's Garden

A tale for today's girls!

Marcellin cultivates an extraordinary garden. He doesn't cultivate vegetables, but letters, all kinds of letters written in capital letters, in script or even in cursive. Many people come to Marcellin's garden. Everyone can come and get the letters they need. There is also Eugénie, his beloved grandmother. She forgets the letters she had come to pick for her knitting. So Marcellin whispers to her the words for the little stories she knits for him every day.

Il y a bien sûr Eugénie.
Mais comme tous les jours,
elle a oublié quelles lettres
elle était venue cueillir pour son tricot.
Alors elle y retourne, désolée.
Mais elle ne peut pas vraiment avancer.

LOLA, PRINCESSE REBELLE Lola, the rebel princess

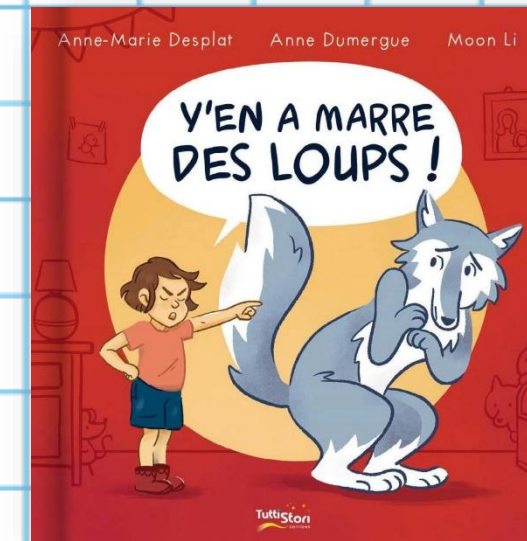

A tale for today's girls!

Lola is a young princess who doesn't like dresses. While her sisters parade around in beautiful outfits, she prefers to run and jump around the palace. By refusing dresses and frills, she breaks the established codes. A wind of rebellion blows in her wake. And all the women of the kingdom will rise up to put an end to the myth of "Be beautiful and shut up"... with humor!

A quirky and contemporary tale to address a social issue.

Y'EN A MARRE DES LOUPS ! I'm fed up with wolves!

Who can replace the wolf?

In my room, among my toys, I get angry and stamp my foot. Wolf here, wolf there... In books and on TV... They are in all the stories! Well, I've had enough! Wolves are mean. They scare sheep, little pigs, and even children. I want a story without wolves. But what animal can be the hero?

A picture book full of humor!

Thematics:
Princess • Tale • Feminism • Open-mindedness • Humor

Mais c'était mal connaître Lola. La petite intrépide échappa à la surveillance de sa servante et sauta sur le toit du carrosse. Des « Oh ! » et des « Ah ! » fusèrent de la foule étonnée. Les hommes massés sur les trottoirs se moquèrent de la princesse en pantalon.

Ah Ah!

Un étrange animal vient après. Emmouffé dans son manteau, il a trop enfoncé son chapeau.

Et devinez ce qui dépasse dans son dos ? Une queue noire et touffue !

— Encore toi ! File, et que je ne te revoye !
